WHEELING, JUNE 15, 1891.

Ohio Republicans.

To-morrow the Republicans of Ohio hold their State convention. The one thing to be predicted with certainty is the nomination of Major McKinley for governor. There are smaller fry who would like the honor and some of them thought for awhile that they were more or less "in it."

In fact, there has from the first been but one probability, and the name thereof is McKinley. Great as the honor will be McKinley does not need it. He stands in the very front rank of Republicans, and there are not half a dozen men in his party, from one end of the country to the other, who equal him in the public estimation. He stands so well and so high that he may at any time be brought down by the Presidential lightning.

The demand among Ohio Republicans that McKinley should lead them is not at all hero worship, much as his party at home thinks of him. He is the strongest man there is in the State at this time for this place, and if he cannot be elected it will be because the Republicans of Ohio cannot elect anybody this year.

There will be a sharp fight, but the chances are in favor of McKinley, who will force the fighting from the start to the finish.

The Cahensly Movement.

Herr Cahensly is by no means unhonored by the adverse criticism on his scheme which reach him from this side of the Atlantic. He comes again, this time to accuse the Irish in America of trying to get for themselves all the bishoprics they can—just what Herr Cahensly would like to do for the Germans. In a recent forceful interview Archbishop Ireland denied the truth of the allegation that the Irish have a great preponderance of the American bishoprics.

Archbishop Ireland is very likely to know what he is talking about. But the point raised by Cahensly is apart from the question; for the Irish he is talking about are not Irish at all, but Irish-Americans or the sons of Irish fathers. The sufficient difference between them and Cahensly is that they are citizens of this country and he is not; they have a stake in the welfare of the United States and he has not. If he and his co-laborers feel moved to engage in missionary work they might practice at home, or, if that be lacking in the heroic elements, try their luck in some land more benighted than this.

The whole movement is just what Archbishop Ireland has characterized it, a piece of impertinence without any justification. Catholics are right to resent it, for it assumes that American Catholics cannot stand alone. Americans, of whatever creed or religious affiliation or without any, are right to resent it, for it is intolerable foreign interference in our domestic affairs. The Cahensly movement may succeed when the present race of Americans shall have passed away.

In the House of Commons.

If there were as much freedom in the British House of Commons as there is in a British court of justice, the Commons would outdo the court room scenes. The questions which certain members desire to fire into the government would stir up a pretty fight indeed, for they have been prepared with the Prince of Wales directly in mind. It happens, however, that the speaker of the House of Commons has his hand on the brake and will not permit the most radical questions to be put. There is ingenuity in the House as well as a speaker, and it will go hard with some of the members if they fail utterly to get in some fine work.

The point of the inquiries they desire to make is whether sauce for the baronet goose ought not to be sauce for the princely gander. If a lieutenant colonel must lose his place in the army, why not a field marshal?

It is a foregone conclusion that the Prince of Wales will not be ousted from the army, but before the thing is over he may wish he had never seen the seductive game of baccarat.

West Virginia's Tobacco Crop.

West Virginia is not distinctly a tobacco producing State, and yet in this regard she makes a good showing. According to census returns 4,847 acres produced 2,602,021 pounds, valued at $842,380. Lincoln county leads in the number of acres, having 964 in tobacco, but Fayette county, with 535 acres under cultivation raises 317,104 pounds, valued at $80,280 against $63,040 for Lincoln county's crop. Fayette county tobacco is a prime favorite in the market and brings the best price. There are thousands of acres in West Virginia suitable for producing tobacco of high grade, and the State will make a much better showing for this crop by the time the census taker comes along.

Bad for Wales—Good for America.

If our Democratic friends will bear with us we would like to make a brief comment on some news that comes from over the water. It is announced from that side of the tin plate question that in Wales forty-three works will shut down, throwing out of employment 26,000 men, owing to decreased demand from America.

From the Democratic, which is the free trade point of view, it is quite sinful to shut down these Welsh works and throw out of employment these Welsh operatives, many of them women. There is, however, something comforting in the thought that since these things have come about they will result in benefit to our own country and our own countrymen. We shall consume no less tin plate than before, but what we consume will be made at home.

The equivalent of the product of those forty-three works and 26,000 operatives will be made in this country. The wages will go to our own people, and they will consume American farm products. This it is to transfer from abroad an industry which we have been supporting by our good American dollars. Protectionists look on this as a great gain; and if they have any regrets in the premises it is because they cannot induce their friends the free traders to take the same view and be glad accordingly.

As a Tale That is Told.

In the corner stone of St. James' church a Boom INTELLIGENCER was placed yesterday. In the dim and distant future, when some other Christopher Columbus shall discover this continent and begin to rake among the ruins, wondering who peopled the land in the centuries past—what kind of people they were, what they did, what they thought, how they lived, the mystery will be solved when he strikes the corner stone of St. James' and sits down in amazement to read his morning newspaper.

It will not be fresh from the press, but it will be a revelation. As he turns its ample pages the civilization of this day will unroll and pass before his startled gaze as a panorama of wonders. And he will know a great deal more about West Virginia than anybody of this day who has not read the Boom INTELLIGENCER.

These corner stones are great things when they are intelligently managed.

Dr. John Hall's Idea.

Rev. Dr. John Hall, who is one of the directors of Union Theological Seminary, says, with regard to the Briggs case, that it was the duty of the Seminary to say to the General Assembly that the institution erred when it placed itself under the care of the Assembly, for its charter, as is now seen, precludes it from doing so. Having made this explanation and apology, Dr. Hall says the question "would then arise whether some of us could, in the circumstances, remain members of the board." The only reasonable inference from this statement of his position is that if the Seminary cannot be under the care of the General Assembly Dr. Hall would sever his connection with the seminary.

The opinion of so distinguished a Presbyterian as Dr. Hall is always listened to with respect, whether it be on questions of doctrine or of church polity.

ASSESSOR GORDER, of Barbour county, makes a good point on the assessment of personal property. It should be equal and uniform, as all assessments should be; but the troubles is to bring them to this standard. A common understanding as to values would help, but it would not reveal that which is concealed. A meeting of the assessors of the State might help to a solution of the difficulty.

The young bloods in Ohio may succeed in keeping Senator Sherman in the background in to-morrow's convention, but if they do it will not be a particularly smart or profitable trick. John Sherman may not be the pride of some of the politicians, but he is the pride of the Republican party in Ohio and has the confidence of the people of the country.

LONDON'S 'bus drivers' strike is over, but still there is not peace on the Thames. The laundresses, 100,000 strong, have their arms bared for a fight. It is said to think of London going unwashed for a few weeks.

GERMANY is amazed at the gambling propensities of the Prince of Wales. Germany is not very fond of His Royal Highness, who has not put himself out to make friends outside of his own high-rolling coterie.

Is the temperature of New York State politics had been as high in midwinter as now, there wouldn't have been room for an overcoat in all the Empire State. It's just eizzling—"and Jones he pays the freight."

THERE is a touching story of a man who, having asked, "Is it warm enough for you?" was knocked out in the first round. Offer your friend a lemonade instead.

The stench on the west side of Main street from a little above Eleventh street down, is strong enough to have its own way.

The memorial services of the Knights of Pythias were beautiful and impressive and worthy of this excellent order.

INTELLIGENCER ENTERPRISE.

Worth Preserving.

Elkins News.

The boom edition of the Wheeling INTELLIGENCER was issued June 4th. It has twenty-eight pages, eight columns to the page, replete with matter of the most interesting character to every West Virginian or to any one interested in West Virginia. It is a model of neatness and taste in its make-up, and shows what intelligent effort concentrated in good cause can produce. It graphically describes our railroads, mines and manufactures, and gives a well written description of each county, and is so interesting and valuable in every way, that we have locked up our copy and will preserve it as an encyclopaedia of everything worth knowing, in regard to our grand Mountain State.

From Abroad.

Torrington (Conn.) Register.

Wheeling, West Va., is being boomed by the DAILY INTELLIGENCER of that city in a monster 28-page edition. This was the first city in the world to make cut nails of steel. Her nail production last year was 132,000 tons. The total products were a million and a half tons, and the receipts—coke, iron, ore, limestone, merchandise, etc., 2,301,000 tons. Wheeling, the metropolis of the State, is in the southern part of the great oil and gas belt and its future is full of promise. The Wheeling Bridge and Terminal company has just completed a massive steel bridge across the Ohio, costing with its terminals five million dollars. It takes 8,700,000 pounds of steel.

A Model of Completeness.

West Union Record.

The Wheeling INTELLIGENCER's industrial development edition made its appearance last week, and it is a model of completeness. It contains 28 pages, devoted principally to the diversified interests of the State of West Virginia. It contains many articles of value on all the natural resources of the State, and gives a good deal of space to the development of the State by railroads. The whole is illustrated and contains many sketches of interest to West Virginians. Thirty tons of paper was used in the edition.

At All Times Magnificent.

Philippi Republican.

The Wheeling INTELLIGENCER, which at all times is a magnificent newspaper, on June 4 issued a "boom" edition devoted to the advancement of the material interests of West Virginia. It is a splendid piece of work, consisting of twenty-eight pages of matter, which has involved heavy expense in its compilation, and which will do our State immense good in the way of making our resources known and calling attention to the wonderful natural wealth of our little "Mountain State."

Will Do Good Work.

Greenbrier Independent.

One hundred thousand copies of this valuable paper were issued, and, being sent out over the country, will do much to attract the attention of capitalists and home seekers to splendid opportunities here presented. The INTELLIGENCER is now printed on a Hoe web perfecting press with a capacity of 12,000 eight-page papers per hour. We congratulate Brother Hart on the industry and enterprise he has shown in getting out this great edition of his paper.

A Boomer.

South Branch Intelligencer.

The Wheeling INTELLIGENCER, in addition to its late enlarged and improved appearance issued on Thursday of last week a mammoth journal of twenty-eight pages styled "Special State Industrial Development Edition." It contains many articles of value on all the natural resources of the State besides cuts of maps and buildings. It is stated that thirty tons of paper was used in the edition.

A Free Obituary.

Hancock County Courier.

Notwithstanding the INTELLIGENCER's boom sheet says that New Cumberland "is fast becoming the metropolis of the Panhandle outside of Wheeling, and holding that position against all comers," there are people here who oppose all improvements to the town. The sooner they are dead the better. Obituary free.

A Big Thing.

Kingwood Argus.

The Wheeling INTELLIGENCER got out an immense edition last week, booming the State generally. It was the biggest thing of the kind ever attempted in the State, and the INTELLIGENCER deserves special credit for its enterprise and ability. Barring its politics, the INTELLIGENCER is a splendid paper.

Ought to be a Book.

Buchannon Banner.

The Wheeling INTELLIGENCER's boom edition appeared last Thursday. It ought to have been issued in book form.

HOW DID SHE TELL.

In Little Dale's dimpled hand two bright, new pennies shown:

One was for Bob (at school just then), the other Daisy's own.
 While waiting Bob's return she rolled both treasures round the floor.
 When suddenly they disappeared, and one was seen no more.
 "Poor Daisy, is your penny lost?" was asked in accents kind.
 "Why, no, mine's here!" she quietly said; 't's Bob's I cannot find."
 —A True Story in June St. Nicholas.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of the INTELLIGENCER will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE public is cordially invited to attend the Grocers' Picnic at Wheeling Park, Thursday, June 18.

EDWARD L. ROSE & Co. have received within the last few days the Victor Safety Model C, which is a beauty in every line; and a new hickory, known as the "Common Sense," which sells at $75, and is adapted to either ladies' or gentlemen's use. They also have a fine assortment of second hand Bicycles.

IF your name is not on the INTELLIGENCER'S Subscription Books make haste to get it on the list. Notwithstanding increased size and general improvement there is no increase in price. Still better

FORAKER ON TOP

He Bobs Up Again—The State Convention Under His Control.

COLUMBUS, June 14.—The interest in the Republican State Convention, which convenes Tuesday, is assuming proportions. Quite a number of candidates and their friends are already here. The Entertainment Committee held a final meeting last night and have made preparations for the care of the largest convention which has been held in Ohio for years. Every preliminary points to a probability that Senator Sherman will be kept in the background. It is freely talked to-night in select circles that the programme has been arranged to that effect. Sherman expected to be Permanent Chairman of the convention without opposition, but it was developed that General Asa S. Bushnell is being brought forward by his friends and will be given the place. He was on Governor Foraker's staff and is an anti-Sherman man.

The Sherman people thought when they conceded Governor Foraker the honor of nominating McKinley in the convention they would have no further opposition, but it is evident the Foraker men in the State will have control of the convention from the start, and will not only organize the same, but will conduct the campaign in their own interests. It is learned to-night that Chairman Hahn, of Mansfield, of last year's Republican Committee, will be placed at the head of the committee this year. He is opposed to Sherman and drills with the Foraker element in the State.

On the top of all comes the news of the Blaine demonstration at Indianapolis, for this, being Harrison's home, carries with it some significance. The Republican State Convention on Tuesday will be a Blaine-Foraker convention, but whether it means anything further than admiration for the men remains to be developed.

The Electric Light Ordinance.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR: I ask for space in your paper on a subject that will soon be disposed of as another monument to the mismanagement of city affairs. The champion of the electric light schemers has been heard from and we have the reasons why the loan should be ratified. The whole argument is nothing but assertions, which does not prove anything.

Better and cheaper light. We ask how is it possible that it can be done by making the price of gas less, when it is claimed that the gas works to pay this bonded debt, principal and interest. The only deception used is by the advocates of the scheme, telling the taxpayers that the gas plant is to assume this debt, when any man who reads the papers knows well that every year there is over $100,000 appropriated for the use of this same bonanza. What have they been doing with the surplus of this money-making bonanza for the past nineteen years? A member of Council says it will be a good thing for the taxpayers to have a big bonded debt, as these are the same fellows that threw up their hands in righteous indignation when Jay Cooke said that a national debt was a national blessing. We don't see it that way. Corporations are like fire and individuals; the more interest you pay the less profit you have; the more debt you incur the greater the taxation. I do not know if it will get some of our streets paved, nor do I care. If some of these "cheap lights" are put where we can see the mud holes and man traps, we can do without the paved streets.

We would ask the taxpayers if they are going to allow themselves to be saddled with another debt from which they can't see the way out. The bridge bonds are to be put up at public auction next month, which is another monument to mismanagement. Another is the $70,000 hole up on the bill, which the organ says would be serviceable if we only had another water works.

Now in ten years the city will pay for the expense of a plant of $30,000, not counting the gift from the gas works (for that don't go, you know), interest in ten years $48,000 cost of running or operating and repairs will be $300,000 more, making in ten years $428,000, not counting percentage to the commissioners. A private corporation offered to do the same work, for the same time for $261,797.20 with the option of buying their plant for $80,000, which there would be a saving of $88,202.80. Think of that you taxpayers, before you go into any such scheme. Oh, yes, we have the cry that the gas works pays the freight; but who pays the gas works? We know that the people are taxed heavily for lights that are not lighted. And we know that these same old $18,000 oil lamps would still be left standing, as "guide posts" in the swampy district called "Spoke Island" and "Goose Town," for no beacon light shines out from them to guide the poor mechanic to his humble home, and if this system of taxation is continued the poor man will soon have no home to tumble into. To use his own words it is the "yeast" of a forlorn intelligent man to persuade us how they can pay this debt and light the city with 361 lights for $14,000 a year, when it takes now $20,000 for gas and $18,000 for oil. Tell us how you are going to do it. Don't say we can do it, but show us; you must have figures. Talk is no good; too cheap; but it takes money to put up Electric plants. I am not in the pay of any corporation, but I simply speak as a citizen, and I think in spite of Council or anyone else I have a right to be heard. I do not believe in monopolies such as the "statemen" gave the natural gas company, nor do I believe that the city has any right to go into any sort of business of the kind. They point with pride to what the gas works has done. True it was put up by a private corporation with a proviso, and when the time came it passed to the city. The Wheeling Electrical Company does the same thing, and now here is the same chance. Taxpayers, ponder over this scheme before you cast your vote to keep a "nest egg" for all the petty politicians that have a life tenure on the public works of the city. Some of them have grown grey in the service, but their real has out-lived their usefulness. But I am not one of them.

EIGHTH WARD.

A Well-Known Lady's Death.

MARTINSBURG, W. VA., June 13.—Mrs. J. S. Simpson, eldest daughter of Dr. J. B. Wiley, of Gerrardstown, this county, died at the residence of her father last night. She was a most estimable and popular lady and eighteen months ago was married to Prof. J. S. Simpson, of Leesburg. A large number of relatives from Baltimore, Washington and many parts of Virginia have arrived to attend the funeral, which will take place Tuesday morning.

WESTON NOTES.

An Interesting Legal Question—Found Dying—Flower Day Celebration.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

WESTON, W. VA., June 14.—A question will be brought up in the morning, the first day of circuit court, as to whether the jurors summoned to serve are legal or not. It appears that they were summoned under the old law and are to serve under a late act of the legislature. Judge Bennett has the matter under consideration and will give his views upon the subject in the morning.

A coal miner named Jack White was found in a dying condition and his collar bone broken just above Weston at an early hour this morning. He was a party in a knock-down and drag-out fight in a house of ill fame. He was sent to the county hospital where his injuries were dressed.

Children's day was observed here this evening in the M. E. church. The ceremonies were beautiful and impressive.
